

Nzdri Fonterra: New Zealand's Multinational Dairy Company

Fonterra Co-operative Group Ltd is a leading multinational dairy company and the world's largest exporter of dairy products, exporting 95 percent of our production towards 140 countries.

Our ingredients business is the largest dairy ingredients operation in the world, manufacturing and marketing more than 1,000 ingredient products to the international food industry.

«The results of initial tests on a number of different dairy products showed that we had made the right choice and the instrument was bought" said Dr Frank Visser, Senior Research Scientist at NZDRI. "Since then, we have been using it intensively for research purposes as well as more recently for answering some questions from the dairy industry.

Over the past two years, we have been using the FOX 4000 successfully for such products as fresh and UHT milk, milk powders, sweetened condensed milk, cream and ice cream, casein, butter, cheese and various cheese products, ghee, whey protein concentrate and yoghurt.

In these cases where we used the FOX 4000 in combination with sensory evaluation, we never had contradicting results related to aroma.

Our relation with Alpha MOS is excellent. The service we get at the other end of the world is quick, reliable and user friendly.»
